

EL PASO ELECTRIC COMPANY
SECOND REVISED RULE NO. 14
CANCELLING FIRST REVISED RULE NO. 14

INTERRUPTION AND/OR SHORTAGE OF SUPPLY

Page 1 of 1

The Company will endeavor to maintain as far as reasonably possible continuity of service, uniformity in the quality of service furnished, and the safety of persons and property. In the event that such service be interrupted due to fire, strike, riot, flood, acts of God or a public enemy, sabotage or other force majeure condition beyond the Company's control, the Company shall not be liable to the customer. Furthermore, the Company will not be liable for damages occasioned by interruption of service when such are necessary to make repairs involving the Company's equipment and facilities.

In the event that there shall be a shortage in the supply of service through no fault of the Company, the Company may undertake a load-shedding plan as may be prescribed by the regulatory authorities in the best interests of the customers thus affected.
